

Little Teen

S.O.S.

I'm in distress.

I am five foot one,

Which is not much fun.

When I run in a race,

I'm a big disgrace.

When I reach up high,

I don't touch the sky.

One night I had an amazing dream

That lifted up my self-esteem.

I dreamt that I magically grew and grew,

Until I had a birds-eye view.

At the height I was at

I became a scaredy-cat.

The ground was so far away

I could see the whole U.S.A.

When I woke up early that day,

I went to the mirror right away.

I was so very happy to see,

I was just the right height for me.
